

SaleSpider Media Will Soon Unveil New Networking Platforms

SaleSpider Media will be unveiling two new networking platforms in the next few months. These platforms will be geared towards a very different audience than the already existing business networking site SaleSpider.com.

SaleSpider Media will be unveiling two new networking platforms in the next few months. These platforms will be geared towards a very different audience than the already existing business networking site SaleSpider.com.

One of these platforms will be geared towards homeowners. Here, home owners will be able to connect with other homeowners, contractors and home service professionals. The platform will also provide recent news that would benefit homeowners as well as free home improvement articles ranging anywhere from tips on painting a new home to how to renovate on a strict budget to remodelling a bathroom. Also included will be a business directory where homeowners may be matched to residential professionals.

The other platform will be geared toward investors looking for investment advice and wealth managers. Here investors will be able to discuss investment strategies, connect with investors and investment advisors and read up on the latest financial news. There will also be a complete business directory where thousands of financial firms will be listed.

SaleSpider is very excited about the launch of these new business networking platforms and to provide helpful information to their users. Stay tuned for more announcements to come in the next few weeks.
